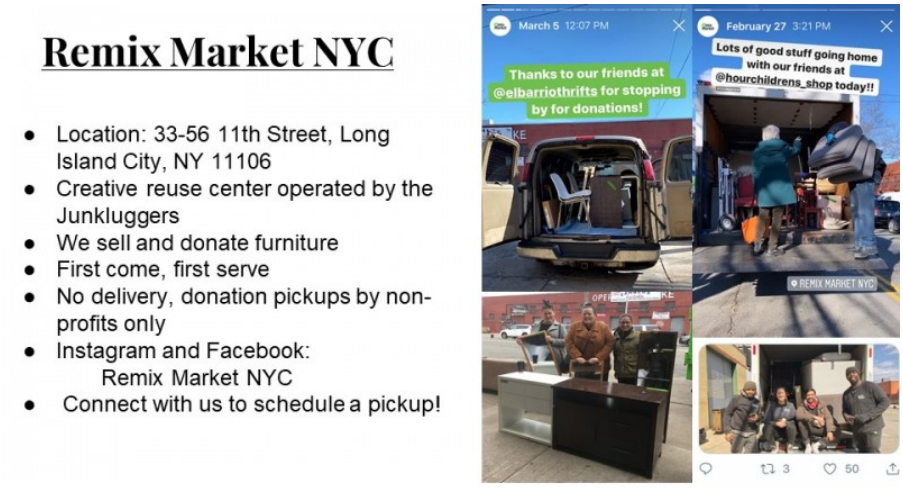
In-Kind Donation Source for Non-Profits

Company: Remix Market NYC
Location: Queens, NY



I represent Remix Market NYC, which is a creative reuse center operated byThe Junkluggers. Our shop, Remix Market NYC, is a creative reuse center where we both sell and donate items that have been removed from NYC homes and offices on behalf of The Junkluggers.

Thanks to this partnership, we have a massive amount of inventory available for donation to local non-profit organizations. Our scope is large - we regularly donate whole apartments to organizations working in transitional housing - and small, we have teachers that come by and pick up a few small items at a time for their classroom. Ultimately, we are simply looking to alert the New York non-profit community that we are here if you need us, as we always have a lot to offer!

If you feel that your organization can benefit from a pickup at Remix Market NYC, please let me know and we can schedule a short call to discuss in more depth. This offer is absolutely free-of-charge to local non-profits. If you know of other organizations that you feel would benefit from a pickup feel free to send them my contact information: anna@junkluggers.com.
