Directions: kupferbergcenter.org/directions

Parking: kupferbergcenter.org/parking

Venue Entrance:

To create an equitable experience for disabled and nondisabled attendees, the conference will use the black gated entrance at Kissena Boulevard. Please note the entrance at 149-53 Reeves Avenue is not accessible and is at the base of a long staircase. An accessible entrance is located on Kissena Boulevard between Horace Harding Expressway and 64th Avenue. More information about entrances to the venue is available at kupferbergcenter.org/accessibility

If you are using a GPS application (i.e., Google Maps), please make sure you enter both the venue name and address to arrive at the accessible entrance. In the search bar, enter "Kupferberg Center for the Arts, 65-30 Kissena Blvd, Flushing, NY 11367."

The accessible entrance is a black gate, which will remain open throughout the day. Once you enter through the gate, turn right, and you will follow a path up a gradual incline that leads to the entrance of the Colden Auditorium. The entrance is also shown in the photo below.

Queens College is part of the City University of New York (CUNY) network, which was founded on the principle of equal access and opportunity. CUNY's commitment to protecting and supporting their students, regardless of immigration status, has not wavered throughout its 170-year existence. Queens College extends these principles to the attendees, speakers, and volunteers of Dance/NYC's Immigrants. Dance. Arts. Conference, presented in partnership with the New York City Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs on November 8, 2018 at Kupferberg Center for the Arts at Queens College.

We recognize Dance/NYC's values of justice, equity, and inclusion, and remain committed to steadfastly continue to offer a welcoming environment on our campus for all.
