House Appropriations Committee Approves $145 Million for NEA | July 19, 2017

Last night, the full House Appropriations Committee approved a budget for the Department of Interior that would fund the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) at $145 million for fiscal year 2018.

Congress has shown strong bipartisan support in recent years, increasing the NEA's budget by $2 million in both FY 2016 and 2017, resulting in a $150 million budget in FY17. This occurred in spite of the administration's request to cut the agency by $15 million in FY17 and releasing a budget proposal that would eliminate the agency in FY18.

The full House must still pass this legislation and the Senate also needs to introduce a budget proposal for the Interior Department, which likely won't happen until after the August recess.

This past year, members of the Senate requested at least $150 million in funding for the NEA. There is still time to urge the Senate to reinstate the $5 million eliminated from the House proposal. Dance/USA, along with our arts partners, will continue to urge the Senate to fund the NEA at \$155 million for FY18.
