Based on R. Buckminster Fuller's experimental collaborations with students at Black Mountain College in the summers of 1948-49, the piece will re-create Fuller's earliest experiments as a silent movement work using structured improvisation.

Nine performers, male and female, with a background in contact improvisation, modern dance and/or movement work are sought. The performances will be rehearsed with choreographer Laurel Atwell, in collaboration with Liz Glynn. Compensation will be $300 for three performances and related rehearsals.
