The film I'm directing is called "The Art of Fixing Things" very much inspired by the dance documentary "Pina".

The dance has not been finalized but I would be working with a choreographer, and it would be more about the movement. It would not be very rhythmic.

The female lead would need to have very long brown hair, and be willing to cut off about 8-10 inches of it for the film. If this is not negotiable, we could figure something out, maybe with hair extensions.

The audition dates will be posted as soon as the project has been approved, but please email me personally and I will let you know.

Thank you!
