Compensation: film credit and film available for viewing online and submitted to festivals

I'm looking for a male contemporary dancer who looks to be in his fifties, or thereabouts, for a short dance film.

You will be dancing a duet with me; our movement will be informed by our experience of fear and how we move through it. Our duet will be about a three-minute section in a film with six other sections. Each section deals with various types of fear people experience as they move through their lives, and how they discover ways to move through and beyond it.

You and I would choreograph our duet during the weeks of November 3rd and 10th. The shoot will be during the week of November 17th.

There is no pay for this project; you will get a credit and the film will be available online for viewing. It will also be submitted to film festivals

The film is being written, produced and directed by ShuHui Yang. Please learn about her at www.ShuHuiYang.com.

You can learn about me at my Web site, www.cinedancer.com.

If you are interested, please email me some information about yourself, e.g., picture & resume, URL to some sample work, etc., and some general notes about your availability during the next three weeks.
