OPEN CALL AUDITION

Friday June 17th , 2016 – 10am-1pm

Dancers-performers for Public Movement action

Public Movement is seeking 4 dancers-performers for a site-specific action at a major New York City museum. Development and presentation will take place from September 15 – 25, 2016.

Public Movement is a performative research body established in 2006 by Omer Krieger and Dana Yahalomi, its director since 2011. The group initiates and creates activities within the public sphere bringing together, with audience participation, politics and art. Public Movement studies and creates public choreographies, forms of social order, overt and covert rituals. It explores the political and aesthetic possibilities that reside in a group of people acting together. The performative action planned for September 2016 evolves from a body of research in and around museums, their collections and parallel political constructions.
