So-fi Festival

Applications are now open for the 2019 So-fi Festival at the Torn Page in Chelsea, NYC.

The So-fi Festival launched in Nov 2018, as new a low-fi, high-concept, multidisciplinary festival for solo works. We define multidisciplinary work as a work that uses multiple artistic mediums which are all integral to the storytelling. Examples are, but not limited to: film, photography, VR, sculpture, dance, experimental music/sound, puppetry, culinary arts, photography, etc. We define solo work as work that primarily features one performer. Show slots are 60 min. The festival takes place in the flexible performance space at Torn Page which seats up to 40 audience member (closer to 25 when used for dance). The So-fi Festival will take place from Thursday, June 6th - Sunday, June 23rd, 2019.

So-fi and Torn Page are co-producers of the So-fi festival and partner with artists who can co-present their works in our festival. We strongly believe that artists should be paid for their work and set out to create an affordable opportunity for artists not only to recoup participation fees but to profit as well. Participation fees range from $350-840 depending on the number of performances, and the artist receives 70% of the Box Office sales.

Application Deadline: March 18th at midnight.
