About LED

Recently named by Dance Magazine as "25 to Watch" for 2020, LED weaves signature contemporary choreography, original musical compositions, and elements of film into thought-provoking narratives and inspiring stories that are redefining the boundaries of performing arts. We are a dance company. We are a musical project. We are a film studio. We are creators.

At the heart of everything we do is the desire to put the art making first. We believe in taking creative risks and approaching each project with fresh eyes. By creating unique entry points into our work, we hope our performances spark your curiosity and inspire you to discover something new each time.

Founded in 2015 and proudly based in Boise, Idaho, LED is shaped by the artistic vision of husband and wife co-founders, Lauren Edson and Andrew Stensaas. Lauren and Andrew are intimately involved in the creative production of each artistic work, building each piece from the ground up, and relying on a network of extremely talented artists, dancers, musicians, designers, and technicians to bring each creative experience to life.

LED's live performances have wowed sold-out crowds at Boise's Morrison Center for the Performing Arts, Egyptian Theatre, and Treefort Music Fest, as well as audiences throughout the Pacific Northwest. Described as "fun, sexy and downright cinematic," LED is dedicated to exploring the many different mediums and forms in which they can combine movement, music, and film to create innovative and accessible artistic experiences.
