The Pocket Fuel Groovers are looking for dancers to join them for their first season. Due to Covid-19, auditions will be conducted via video submission.

The Pocket Fuel Groovers are an upcoming contemporary/hip-hop company of New York City based dancers founded by Nick Alselmo. The company is seeking contemporary, street, hip-hop and/or funk dancers with a strong sense of musicality and athleticism. Martial arts, acrobatics, ballet and floor work skills are a plus.

Rehearsals and performances will be paid, as well as photo/video shoots. At the conclusion of auditions virtual correspondence will begin. Once social distancing ends rehearsals in person will happen twice a week for three hours each.

To apply, please send your headshot, resume, and a video (2 minutes max length) of you improvising to an instrumental hip-hop track of your choosing to pocketfuelgroovers@gmail.com. Deadline for submissions is Friday June 19th, 2020.
