

Thursday, September 10, 2020

Submit your work to FRAMES! (deadline Oct. 31)

Company: Collective Exchange
Location: Brooklyn, NY

► Share | Print | Download

FRAMES is a virtual performance event series born out of the need to communicate and share creativity through screens.

When: Friday, November 20 at 8:00 pm EST

Where: Virtual, live-streamed on YouTube Live.

Who: All performers, dancers, poets, multi-media artists, and more!

In the past year, we've all seen our lives go through heavy, unprecedented changes. For some, this was a small adjustment, but for others, it's caused a reframing of their perspectives. We've felt our lives transform and become subject to new guidelines, directions, and boundaries to live by. All of these things, have reframed the way we live, but of course, subjectively. Such an impact has forced everyone to look through a new perspective, a new frame.

These shifts have forced us to reframe our lives and embrace technology in an effort to stay connected to the world around us.

FRAMES is an open call to all performers, dancers, actors, poets, filmmakers, multi-media artists, and the like. We invite you to take to your phones, cameras, computers and create a piece that explores the concept of living within frames and through screens.

Find out how to submit your work!

Collective Exchange
Brooklyn, NY
<https://frames.collective-exchange.com/>

For more information:
Shannon M.
shannon@collective-exchange.com

< back

previous listing • next listing