Since 2018, Petronio Residency Center has addressed the shifting field of American dance by offering on-site creative residencies nestled within a 175-acre haven perched in Greene County's Catskill Mountains. Residencies allow artists time for creation, discussion, and critical thinking, free from the mandates and responsibilities of daily life and any specific deliverables. In the time of COVID, PRC has significantly increased this commitment by adding two additional residencies and opening its application process. We recognize that many dance artists are dangerously under resourced and it is our hope that this restorative and creative time can assist them to weather a most challenging period.
