Do you make dance videos? I'm a west coast composer seeking to collaborate remotely with a NYC based dancer/video maker on a series of short (1-2 minute) dance videos. I can pay $100 per video, one video per month, with this project starting in the spring. The full cycle is eight movements, but I'm open to doing excerpts, or splitting the project between several dancers. We'll be joined by a NYC based violinist, who I was hoping could make an appearance in the videos somehow. An interest in performing live with the violinist is also a plus. I run a contemporary dance showcase on YouTube, where I collaborate with performers from around the world in creating a new dance video each month. I'm now a year into my project, and I'm hoping to take things up a notch in the new year with more deliberate and well planned collaborations. Here's a link to my channel, where you can check out past collaborations:
