About the Process - Glitch (copyrighted by Kinetics with Karley 2023cc)

'Glitch' is a community-based compositional-improvisational performance, where the game of chance incentivizes the potential of interaction.

KwK is further developing and codifying group movement exercises that build trust in the self, and with others simultaneously in a short period of time. The goal is to streamline a codified process that creates a bonded group of individuals that are equipped to have equal trust in oneself and to others to effectively push boundaries to promote self and communal growth. From the professional process, KwK simplifies community improvisational exercises to later culminate into a workshop for all. This project responds to movement's potentiality to provide the tools necessary to positively impact community. More specifically, it responds to how movement practices have become a privilege, and KwK's impact on community is to shift that privilege to accessibility for all.
