The Brooklyn Music Schoolviews art as an essential part of basic education and a means by which individuals connect with that unique part of themselves. We make available access to the performing arts regardless of income, age, previous experience, or professional aspirations. In particular, we seek to help those whose artistic voices are least often heard.

Movement in Cis a collaborative organization that seeks to inspire individuals from all walks of life. Dance being the primary source of inspiration while utilizing other mediums to push the boundaries of our visions, including but not limited to writing, visual and digital media, music and beyond. Dance being at the center, a fusion of different dance disciplines and often spoken word and/or playwriting is brought to the audience for a unique experience. Home of both CV Projects and Salma Allam Dance Theater, the base company is dedicated to exploring the limitless possibilities of the performing arts.
