Activate Equity brings together a community of artists, activists, and educators who seek to disrupt the racial and social inequities in the arts & culture sector through creative solutions. The Field organizes this annual event not to center our organization in this movement, but to connect and amplify those who are doing the work.

This year, we're focusing on Reprogramming The Broadcast. Our aim is to shift conventional mindsets that affect artists and marginalized people. We'll hear from individuals who are breaking the mold by daring to be authentically themselves. This year's guests include Maysoon Zayid, actress, comedian, writer, and disability advocate, and Sarah Khan, producer and director of Migrant Kitchens, a series on Immigrant foodways. More coming soon! Stay tuned and save the date for Saturday, March 7th for this annual day-long program.

Event Date:

Saturday, March 7, 2020 - 12:00pm

Accessibility Notice El Barrio's Artspace PS109 is wheelchair accessible. Please indicate in the "Notes" field below if you have any dietary restrictions or if you require a sign language interpreter or any other considerations for you to fully participate in this program.

Price: $0-120 (Sliding Scale) The Field offers self-determined sliding scale tickets in order to make Activate Equity accessible for our artists and the greater community. Admission includes access to the full day of programming, including lunch. The full value for the event is estimated at $120 per participant.

Disposable cups will be available, but to go green, please bring a reusable water bottle to make use of the drinking fountains available throughout the building.
