Amanda Selwyn Dance Theatre/Notes in Motion is thrilled to announce it has a NEW HOME in downtown Manhattan! The new Amanda Selwyn Dance Studio will be a home for both our professional company Amanda Selwyn Dance Theatre as well as for Notes in Motion dance education programs. We will have offerings for professional dancers, dance enthusiasts, families, young dancers, emerging professionals, and college students. The Amanda Selwyn Dance Studio will present a variety of programs that include audiences in the creative process, engage pre-professional and emerging artists, and expand the reach of our dance education programs, while creating a home base to deepen the creative and performance work of the company. To learn more about the renovation, visit: <https://amandaselwyndance.org/pdf/Studio-Renovations-Amanda-Selwyn-Dance-Studio.pdf>. After 25 years as a nomadic organization, we have secured a lease for a multi-functional dance studio located at 412 Broadway in Tribeca. The studio will function as a rehearsal space, informal performance space, event space, space for workshops, classes, education programs, community building, and office. The focus of our design plans is versatility to create easy transitions between programs. With our own home studio space, we will be positioned to advance our cross-pollinated programs between performance, education, and community engagement. Our Studio events will include audiences in the creative process, engage pre-professional and emerging artists, and expand the reach of our dance education programs, while creating a home base to deepen the creative and performance work of the company.

The renovation will include the following components:

- Studio Lighting - energy-efficient LED color-changing theatrical fixtures, lighting console
- Dance Flooring - sound attenuation layered floor with harlequin flexity sprung floor on top with a permanent cascade finish
- Ceilings - sound attenuation
- Curtains - create optimal performance space capabilities
- Sound System
- Pantry with Dishwasher/Sink
- Locker Rooms/Shower/Washer/Dryer
- Storage Areas
- Entry Area with shoe and coat storage

The Amanda Selwyn Dance Studio will present a variety of programs that include audiences in the creative process, engage pre-professional and emerging artists, and expand the reach of our dance education programs, while creating a home base to deepen the creative and performance work of the company.
