Clark Center NYC in partnership with The National Arts Club launches our newest initiative "Expressions: Black Lives Matter An Arts Collaboration".

The Clark Center for the Performing Arts, a vision inspired by dance luminary Alvin Ailey, and other celebrated dancers and educators, was established in 1959 and has always been known for diversity, inclusion and providing opportunities for African-American artists and artists of color. Join us as the Clark Center community will share this history and legacy through the current lens of Expressions: Black Lives Matter - An Arts Collaboration of dance, visual arts and spoken word.
