CLASS DESCRIPTION

The Body, Geometry & Flow Intensive proposes a space for exploring diverse types of movement accessed through guided improvisations based on specific body tasks. The guided improvisations will focus on spatial awareness, consciousness of one's surroundings, performing, musicality and creativity. Subsequently, we will be exploring through collective exercises where the collective body stimulates the individual body to displace familiar body configurations and movement patterns. Each class will conclude with instant composition exercises, based on the toolset and logics of David Zambrano's Passing Through technique. The objective of the intensive is to create a body with an expanded ability to transform geometrically, fluidly, and spatially in individual and collective movement. Body, Geometry & Flow has been taught at institutions and spaces such as Codarts Circus Arts, CEPRODAC, Ballet Folklórico de México, Universidad de Sonora, Universidad Veracruzana & la Cantera, among others.
