nathan trice / RITUALS 2019 Recognizing Women Project

We're looking for individuals to assist with executing the needs of the stage, lighting and sound designers.

If you'd like to assist on this production and view a performance for free, contact us at: campaign.nathantricerituals@gmail.com.

The RWP is an inter-disciplinary research initiative that creates educational residencies and artistic presentations about the experiences and concerns of women. From Fall 2018 through Spring 2019 the initiative brings together a multi-cultural group of 25 to 30 adolescent, young adult and adult female dancers with students and practitioners of the social sciences to work as a research analysis team. The goal of the RWP's research initiative is to understand women's intersectional experiences and to share findings through dialogue and visceral thought-provoking performances.

Dates are March 14th , 10-1:30pm, March 15th 5-9pm and March 16th 5-10pm.
