Hotel New Work is the room we crave, however transitory, where to unpack and display ideas and practices in a creative dialogue between artist and spectator.

Revealing Dances invites you directly into moments of creation. The doors will be opened to each company's rehearsal process, and you are invited in. You'll get to move between 2 studios as the creative teams from Convergences Theatre Collective and Kinesis Project respectively give life to Babel and Secrets and Seawalls.

About Secrets and Seawalls:

Created and choreographed by Melissa Riker. Secrets and Seawalls springs from the artist's curiosity about New York City's seawalls that protect the land from the sea. Through research and collaboration with architect Lee H. Skolnick, Secrets and Seawalls threads intimate and daring choreography with architectural, and deeply human, concepts of space and vulnerability.

About Babel:

Created by WT McRae/Tiny Giraffe and Jeremy Williams/Convergence Theater Collective. Babel is an acrobatic-dance theater piece that explores The Tower of Babel Myth from the bible. It explores the human desire to create, the role of language in success, and the challenges of diversity.
