Make Visible with Moeno Wakamatsu

June 10-12, 10am-2pm, $140

This LEIMAY Ludus Lab strips down dance to the very basic essentials. What is the dance when one removes everything that is unnecessary? Often dancers perform to show what they "do" or to express their ideas/concepts/feelings. Take those away, then they are left empty and exposed: this is the place we begin. If one dares to stand naked and open to the world, to the audience, to one's own self, then the body, the consciousness, the audience, and the environment all become as one single phenomenon. As one phenomenon, the body will begin "to be moved" without one's own will, as if by some other forces. An unknown will becomes visible. This workshop introduces concrete physical approach towards this way of dancing, through various physical, sensory, imagery exercises and guidance.

This lab is part of SOAK 2016, a festival molded by LEIMAY, the interdisciplinary ensemble and producing organization behind the acclaimed New York Butoh Festival.
