

October, 15-19, 2014

Lar Lubovitch Dance Company

Company: World premiere + new production with Alessandra Ferri
Venue: The Joyce Theater
Location: New York, NY

► Share | Print | Download

"Artemis in Athens," Photo by NYC Dance Project

The internationally renowned Lar Lubovitch Dance Company returns to The Joyce Theater, October 15-19, 2014, with ANCIENT TALES, a program of two new works based on ancient myths.

The Black Rose, a world premiere, is a work for ten dancers drawing on ancient folk stories. The commissioned score is by Scott Marshall (composer of Lubovitch's Men's Stories).

Artemis in Athens, a re-conception of a work originally created for American Ballet Theatre in 2003, is based on the Greek myth of the goddess of the hunt. Guest artist Alessandra Ferri and ten young dancers from The Juilliard School perform with the Lubovitch company to a newly commissioned orchestration of Christopher Theofanidis's original score, performed live by Le Train Bleu under the direction of Ransom Wilson.

World premiere + new production with Alessandra Ferri
175 Eighth Avenue, at 19th Street
New York, NY, 10011
(212) 242-0800
<http://www.joyce.org>

Schedule
October 15, 2014: 7:00pm
October 16, 2014: 8:00pm
October 17, 2014: 8:00pm
October 18, 2014: 2:00pm, 8:00pm
more

< back

previous listing • next listing