Join us for Lioness: Women in Jazz Concert Series, a 3-part partnership series happening at Flushing Town Hall during the Fall 2022 season. Each of these 3 concerts will be 60 minutes long and include a Q&A after each performance. This concert features the collective Lioness™.

The purpose of each concert is not only to share the music of women composers with the community, but also to share the artistic process and methods practiced by these composers. It's also a forum through which the audience can have a meaningful dialogue with the musicians and hopefully feel more of a connection with the music and the artistic process moving forward.

About the Artist

Lioness™ is a collective of female jazz instrumentalists living in New York City whose mission is to inspire and educate the community at large by sharing music created by women in jazz, both past and present. Through outreach in the schools and in community spaces for the general public as well as providing networking opportunities for female musicians, Lioness™ performs and conducts workshops focusing on the contributions of women in jazz. Their debut release Pride and Joy, (Posi-Tone Records) was met with much critical acclaim, drawing rave reviews from Downbeat, Jazz Times, All About Jazz, and many other publications. This configuration of Lioness™ features Sarah Hanahan, alto saxophone; Jenny Hill, tenor saxophone; Lauren Sevan, baritone saxophone; Amanda Monaco, guitar; Maryann McSweeney, bass; Shirazette Tinnin, drums.
