This class is an improvisational research lab rooted in desire – tuning into and uncovering our embodied desires, making compositional decisions based on these desires, and practice performing/sharing our research for others. Class will begin with an arrival score and warm up then move through guided individual and group improvisation practices.

Kimiko (she/her) is a fourth generation (Yonsei) Japanese American dance and performance artist. She explores the mediums of performance art, dance, writing, origami and paper, and is in a committed partnership with her .38 Muji pen. She is forever fascinated with Japanese folklore and as a lover of literature she finds herself making important life decisions under the eyes and influence of fiction. For Kimiko, art is intimate and inexact.

Kimiko currently performs with glenn potter-takata and Shannon Yu, and has performed with marion spencer, Kizuna Dance, Lisa Fagan and Hannah Mitchell. She is a Fall BAX Space Grantee (2022), Gallim Moving Artist in Residence (2022), Crown Family Professorship for Innovation in the Arts Artist in Residence at Colorado College (2023), Fresh Ground Pepper Play Ground Play Group (2021), and Artist in Residence at The Floor on Atlantic (2021).
