Marion's class creates an open space for us to gather safely – to be together and work together, to move, feel and get whatever it is you need for today. There will be improvisation scores, stretches, strengthening, and alignment practices, and an offering of phrase material. We will work to undo and rewrite understandings of postmodern dance technique. Class may include some writing, drawing, or singing. We will move, sweat, listen, make dances and hold space for each other. Coming from a perspective that all bodies are unique and perfect, this class is suitable for every level of mover, and every kind of artist or person who wants to join in.
