Big Teeth brings its signature work, Ordinary Creatures, to The Muse Brooklyn on Sunday, July 21. The Vermont-based group weaves contemporary dance with acrobatic partnering, physical theater, and aerial arts in a seamless, genre-defying investigation of monstrosity. Clutching the vestiges of their humanity as they embody machines, werewolves, zombies, and giant bugs, five performers journey toward the feral and surreal, struggling all the while with undergarments and the rules of gravity. Think all the wow of Cirque du Soleil's physical feats, but up close and personal, darker, and with an indie art ethos.

The performance is part of Big Teeth's second multi-state tour of Ordinary Creatures. Doors open at 6:30 for the 7:00 show. Tickets ($17-25) are available online via The Muse (bit.ly/OrdinaryCreatures) or at the door (cash only). The Muse is located at 350 Moffat St., Brooklyn, NY 11237.
