Ernie Galan

Hortense Gerardo (Program Director/Creator, Anthropology, Performance, and Technology at University of California San Diego) interviews Jessie Jeanne Stinnett (Founder, Boston Dance Theater) and Dr. Lawrence J. Pratt (Scientist, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution) discuss their dance+science collaboration on the topic of sea level rise during Boston Dance Theater's second installment of its new virtual series SURGE and will be joined by the Boston Dance Theater dancers in a lecture/demonstration format.

FREE ADMISSION, must RSVP in advance. To learn more and register, visit bostondancetheater.com/sea-level-rise

SURGE is an online event that serves a dual function: to fundraise for the continuation of BDT's Sea-Level Rise Project, and to expand our dialogue with like-minded individuals whose work and interests straddle the realms of art+science and environmental sustainability.
