About Stephen Petronio Company

With over thirty years of experience creating work with his own company, Stephen Petronio has pushed his distinctly virtuosic movement language to new realms of experimentation. His unique language speaks to the intuitive possibilities of the body within the shifting cultural moment, and he continues to create a haven for dancers with a keen interest in history and an appetite for the unknown. The creation of BLOODLINES, a project that honors the lineage of American postmodern dance masters, is a natural expansion of this impulse. Petronio is now focused on a dialogue that speaks to the larger context of his foundations.
