Why are Time Steps important?

Time steps are core technique steps that every aspiring tap student should add to their repertoire. There are many kinds of Time Steps, those that are standard Broadway fare (and are often audition material) and others that are unique variations of those basic steps. And, there are times steps that are different, with a longer "8 bar" construction, that are essential to those students studying rhythm tap. And, once you know the basics, you can create your own, unique and original time steps.

Time steps are filled with essential technique skills, music concepts and tap history; so beyond the steps, you'll add to your tap technique, your understanding of music and learn a little tap history too.
