

December, 2-3, 2022

Urban Jeli, Traditional Priests Rooted in American Places

Company: VashtiDance Theater
Venue: The Riverside Theater
Location: New York, NY

► Share | Print | Download

Eric Bandiero

Urban Jeli, Traditional Priests Rooted in American Places, is an interdisciplinary performance incorporating music, dance, and film in an exploration of African retentions and continuances in African American cultural traditions of dance and music from the perspectives of jeli or griots as living storytellers and the embodied spirituality of priests of traditional religions. The performance features choreography by VashtiDance Theater's Artistic Director, Fatima Logan-Alston and musical composition by Musical Director, David Alston that spans aesthetics from West and Central Africa, jazz, funk, Hop-Hop and Contemporary perspectives in a celebration of the resiliency of the African Diaspora in America. There are student, senior, and child discounts available for the performances at The Riverside Theater at 91 Claremont Avenue, New York, NY. Tickets are available at <https://trtnyc.org/upcoming-shows>

VashtiDance Theater
91 Claremont Avenue
New York, NY, 10027
212-870-6784
<https://trtnyc.org/upcoming-shows>

Schedule
December 2, 2022: 6:30pm
December 3, 2022: 6:00pm

< back

previous listing • next listing