

October, 15-19, 2014

World premiere of ANCIENT TALES at the Joyce with guest artist Alessandra Ferri

Company: Lar Lubovitch Dance Company
Venue: Joyce Theater
Location: New York, NY

► Share | Print | Download

Illustration: Scott Marshall

The Lar Lubovitch Dance Company returns to the Joyce Theater with ANCIENT TALES, a single program of two new dances based on ancient myths -- including the world premiere of The Black Rose and the premiere of a re-conceived production of Artemis (originally created for American Ballet Theatre in 2003) called Artemis in Athens.

The company's newest dance, The Black Rose, tells a dark tale drawn by Lubovitch from the primeval folk stories out of which fairy tales eventually arose. This dramatic work for 10 dancers is set to a commissioned score by Scott Marshall (composer of Lubovitch's masterpiece Men's Stories).

The second premiere, Artemis in Athens, is based on a Greek myth of the goddess of the hunt. Lubovitch's new production features the extraordinary ALESSANDRA FERRI in the title role and Lubovitch company dancer Tobin del Cuore as Aktaion. Performing the ensemble in Artemis, are 10 young dancers from Juilliard. Artemis includes a newly commissioned orchestration by Chris Theofanidis of his original score, performed live by Le Train Bleu under the direction of Ransom Wilson.

Lar Lubovitch Dance Company
175 Eighth Avenue (at 19th Street)
New York, NY, 10011
212.242.0800
<http://www.joyce.org>

Schedule
October 15, 2014: 7:00pm
October 16, 2014: 8:00pm
October 17, 2014: 8:00pm
October 18, 2014: 2:00pm, 8:00pm
more

< back

previous listing • next listing