floorWERK: floor f*ckery for ALL bodies!

How do YOU f*ck it up on the floor? And get back up when you're done?

In this four-week series, I will support you to partner your body, re-framing "roadblocks" to sensual movement in and out of the floor as the building blocks of your personal style.

Capped at ten participants, this series is designed to leave tons of space for individual attention, and to help you build the framework you need to make sensual floor movement werk for you.

I am specifically equipped to support you in navigating:

- injury
- various levels of strength and/or flexibility
- joint pain, sensitivity or weakness
- visual impairment
- sensory overload
- gender non conformity

We will do this through:

- modifying tempo and pathway
- using the environment and/or props
- developing the practice of partnering ourselves
- finding YOUR sexy through embodiment and sensual pleasure
- looking at "roadblocks" through a strength assessment lens.

I am not equipped to support folks who cannot navigate stairs in this series, because the space (Brooklyn Arts Exchange) is located up several flights of stairs, with rest points in between. If you cannot navigate stairs, please stay tuned for next year's offerings.
