A split bill featuring how many times by Paul Matteson and welter by Elena Demyanenko.

In welter, simultaneous solos emerge out of prolonged work with color. Infected by color virus and noise making, they evoke an invocation, resulting in a non-symbolic account of desire and its power.

how many times, a new quartet by dancer-choreographer Paul Matteson, draws from Early Buddhist chants and children's books of courage to create an intertwining world of dance and story.

Part of the Winter SubletSeries: Co-Op.
