(FAQ after letter)

Dear Dance Community,

As we come to the close of a third pandemic year, we reflect on the learnings, losses, and triumphs of the past three years. As an artistic community, city, nation, and world, we continue to navigate what remains to be an unprecedented time— one that has forced us to reassess our relationships to each other and to demand and build more just futures. The structures and systems we've long upheld, lived and worked within do not serve us. It has long been time for something new.

Reflections on 2022...

In response to this provocation, Dance/NYC spent 2022 deeply engaged in a spirit of inquiry and learning to more sustainably serve you, our beloved dance community. Externally, we distributed over $1.76 million in funds through our grantmaking initiatives; gathered the community through our annual Symposium: Life Cycles, Livelihoods, Legacies; and launched our groundbreaking Dance Industry Census and Dance Workforce Resilience Initiative to engage, listen and ideate with you as we look toward a new future.

Internally, we slowed down to consider the effects of the pandemic on our operations, our wellbeing as a collective of workers, and to envision a future where wellness is a manifestation of justice. To do this, we worked alongside the team at Liberation-Based Therapy, spearheaded by Tanisha Sabine Christie MA LCSW, an artist, cultural worker and licensed therapist to support the staff and to engage in a systems-wide analysis of Dance/NYC's organizational health, structure, and methodologies. The revelations from this process were affirming and demand committed action: Similar to many of you, Dance/NYC's pointed and singular executive leadership structure, and the sheer volume and intensity of labor taken on by the organization and its workers, is both unsustainable and at odds with its values of justice, equity, and inclusion.

Time for change...

So it is time for a change. In an effort to act on these values and move toward internal and external sustainability, we are announcing a series of significant and necessary changes for 2023. Over time, Dance/NYC has set precedents for thorough and supportive planning in the midst of major organizational shifts and this moment is no exception, as we lean into experimentation and risk-taking.

1. New Leadership Structure:

Beginning January 1, 2023, Alejandra Duque Cifuentes will step aside as Executive Director of Dance/NYC and shift into a new role as Strategy and Research Consultant. In this capacity, she will support the organization in memorializing its processes, advising its interim leadership team, and continuing to lead the Dance Industry Census through its completion.

An experienced interim leadership team will continue to advance Dance/NYC's important operational and programmatic work including:

- Candace Thompson-Zachary, who will be promoted to Director of Programming and Justice Initiatives. Having led Dance/NYC's Symposium and programmatic work since 2019, Candace has played an integral role in furthering the organization's justice initiatives strategy;
- Vicki Capote who will be promoted to Director of Development. Since joining the organization at the top of 2021, Vicki has stewarded Dance/NYC's revenue streams, with a focus on sustainability and community care;
- Sara Roer who will lead Dance/NYC's core administrative functions as its new Director of Operations and Finance. With 15+ years of experience in the dance sector and in the areas of human resources and operations, Sara is a welcome addition to the team; and
- Milena Luna, Dance/NYC's founding Operations Manager and former Co-Interim Executive Director, who will return as Interim Executive Director. Milena has been with Dance/NYC across a variety of roles for 9 years, and brings deep institutional knowledge and coaching expertise to support the organization as it experiments with new leadership constructs.

Together, this powerhouse team will work as a collective— sharing power, strategy, vision, and labor —to put to the test Dance/NYC's first attempt at a shared and distributed leadership structure. You can learn more about them by visiting Dance.NYC.

Additionally, the Dance/NYC Board of Directors will establish a Strategic Leadership Committee to design a bespoke leadership model for the organization. The committee will be comprised of members of Dance/NYC's board, staff, and selected members of the field including dance workers and organizational representatives. This group will engage in a process of inquiry to re-assess the role of the Executive Director and consider alternative models to mitigate future burn-out and elevate the organization's mission and values over the face of its leadership. The committee will work with cultural strategist Lisa Yancey and the team at Yancey Consulting as design and facilitation partners from January through June of 2023. Thereafter, the Board of Directors will engage in a search and hiring process to implement the outcome of this thoughtfully designed new leadership model.

2. Time of Rest:

To allow the Dance/NYC team an opportunity to rest after a significant year of activity, the Dance/NYC offices will be closed from Saturday, December 24, 2022 through Sunday, January 1, 2023 for winter break. Upon our return, we will focus on internal intention setting from Monday, January 2, 2023 through Sunday, January 8, 2023. During this period, our office will be closed for public-facing programs with limited external communications.

3. Services to the Field:

As a part of this major organizational shift and to better align our services with organizational capacity, Dance/NYC will focus on reflection and restructuring in 2023.

What does this mean for you and the services we offer? Please expect:

- A reduction in programmatic activity in order to focus on the ongoing work of the Dance Industry Census, local advocacy, and grantmaking;
- The Symposium will shift to a biennial event moving forward. The next Symposium will take place in 2024; and
- A focus on our internal infrastructure through this period of leadership exploration and transition.

Throughout the year, we will share updates on Dance/NYC's learnings and information about the services our capacity will allow us to deliver.

A new season...

This transition, though inevitable, is one that we invite with great joy. Our hope and intention is that it will birth a new paradigm of more democratic and collectively-driven leadership—one that distributes decision-making and representational responsibilities to engender sustainable, creative, and responsive engagement with you and the entire dance field. Our goal is to embody the change making we advocate for in the field.

As this year unfolds, if you have any questions about what we are up to, how we are honoring our commitments to you, or recommendations for how we can do better, please feel free to contact us. Our emails are publicly available on Dance.NYC

Thank you for trusting us to serve you and for all you do to ensure that dance can thrive here. #WeAreNYCDance
