Responsibilities and Potentials of Sanctuary for Art Spaces

Equity Workshop

1:00 p.m. – 2:30 p.m.

In a world of global structural inequality and widespread precarity, what are the responsibilities of art spaces as spaces of solidarity, safety and sanctuary? And what is the potential of safety, solidarity and sanctuary practices for art spaces? Starting from these questions in practice, the session will explore some legal, practical and strategic protocols, tools and recommendations (de-escalation, signage, abolitionist tactics, accompaniment, covid safety) that can help create spaces of solidarity, safety and sanctuary.

Workshop Facilitators:

- Abou Farman, Associate Professor of Anthropology, New School; Art Space Sanctuary
- Milton X. Trujillo, Community Worker and Coordinator, Centro Corona

Ask-Me-Anything: Art, Disability, and Accessibility Office Hours

Equity Workshop

3:30 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Do you have questions about making your work accessible? Designing programs for equitable participation? Creating access and equity in your company, institution, or space? Join artist and access researcher and developer Laurel Lawson for an open space: bring your questions and be part of the conversation. Possible topics include tactile experience, audio description, visual interpretation, choreography, program design, funding, and more.

Workshop Facilitators:

- Laurel Lawson, Choreographer & Artist-Engineer

State of the Dance Field Address

Alejandra Duque Cifuentes, Executive Director, Dance/NYC

Keynote Conversation:

Art-Making and Humanity: Interrogating Attitudes on Culture, Race, and Politics Across Decades

Societal upheavals that disrupt the status quo are not new to the 2020's. This keynote conversation focuses on two contentious phases in the cultural landscape in the U.S., namely the 'culture wars' that escalated into national spotlight and impacted the way performance artists were censored or supported, and the embrace and critical debate over multiculturalism as a way to market and promote cultural and ethnic inclusion. The discussion addresses the changing beliefs, assumptions and expectations the public holds regarding culture, race and politics, and what it means for the work of audiences, artists and the wider dance ecology today. Curated with George Emilio Sanchez.

Moderator:

- Sarah Wilbur, Ph.D., Assistant Professor/Director of Graduate Studies, Duke University Dance Program

Featured Speakers:

- Benedict Nguyễn, Freelance Dancer, Writer, and Creative Producer
- Dr. Carl Paris, Adjunct Assistant Professor, Africana Studies at John, and Independent Scholar in Dance and Cultural Studies

Facilitated by: Hussein Smko, Founder/Director, Project TAG Dance Theater Company

How Long Has This Been Going On?
Legacies Track
10:00 a.m. – 11:30 a.m.

In Edward Said's infamous book, Culture and Imperialism (1993), he wrote, "Narrative is power." This conversation presents innovative interpretations on Said's quote to demonstrate how the work of Black, Indigenous, and disabled artists is redirecting narrative and power through their arts-making. Moderated by Kyle Dacuyan, speakers expand on how cultural narratives might become reparative when they are supported, produced, and presented accessibly to their communities. Curated with George Emilio Sanchez.

Featured Speakers:

- Alice Sheppard, Kinetic Light
- Andre Bouchard, Executive Creative Producer
- nia love, Choreographer, Artist, Assistant Professor Adjunct at Queens College

Moderator:

- Kyle Dacuyan, Executive Director, The Poetry Project

Livelihoods Workshop Series
Livelihoods Track
10:00 a.m. – 11:30 a.m.

A series of workshops addressing Digital Marketing for Career Longevity, Building a Media Portfolio for Dance, and Commercial Dance and Offer vs. Opportunity: Being Prepared for Success.

Digital Marketing for Career Longevity

Marketing is most valuable when you are targeting your efforts towards specific results. But for independent artists and small arts organizations without formal marketing training, it's overwhelming to know where to start. In an interactive workshop, Fractured Atlas's Nina Berman and Sophia Park will guide artists through the beginning steps of building a goals-based marketing strategy. Attendees will leave with a deeper understanding of who their specific target audience is and at least one concrete goal to help them better connect with that audience.

Workshop Facilitators:

- Nina Berman, Associate Director of Communications and Content, Fractured Atlas
- Sophia Park, Associate Director, Community, Fractured Atlas

Offer vs. Opportunity: Being Prepared for Success

So much mythology exists around "making it" as a dancer, and there is no one-size-fits-all approach. This workshop serves as an open and honest conversation about being prepared to step into a positive opportunity, knowing what you should discuss when you're offered something, and finding the power of "no thanks."

Workshop Facilitator:

- Jason Styres, Casting Director and Creative Director of The Casing Collaborative

Culture Bearers and Traditions for Posterity

Legacies Track

10:00 a.m. – 11:30 a.m.

Folkloric and traditional dance practitioners offer insights on the strength of their practices for posterity, articulating the ways they participate in the wider dance field and how they pass on their traditions. How are these artists perceived, supported and included, and on what terms?

Featured Speakers:

- Paula Sánchez-Kucukozer, Manager and Founding Member, Son Peces
- Sachiyo Ito, Artistic Director, Sachiyo Ito and Company
- Sahasra Sambamoorthi, CEO, Navatman
- Sewaa Codrington, Co-founder/Director, KowTeff School of African Dance

Moderator:

- Darian Parker, Ph.D., Guest Professor of West African Dance, The Juilliard School

Dance Break

Symposium Feature

11:30 a.m. – 11:50 a.m.

Daily dance breaks invigorate, educate, and connect Symposium participants, keeping dance at the center of it all. Presented in partnership with Cumbe Center for African and Diaspora Dance, Dance/NYC's official Dance Break Sponsor.

Facilitated by: Angel Kaba, International Artistic Director, Choreographer; Founder of Afro'Dance New York

Generations of Artists Paving Their Own Path

Life Cycles Track

12:00 p.m. – 1:30 p.m.

Moving beyond the labels of emerging, mid-career, and/or established, this session investigates artists' trajectories based on their own definitions. In a series of paired discussions, dance artists in similar age brackets across varying practices unpack where they are in their careers and the assets, challenges, and opportunities present for them at their current phase. Curated with x.

Featured Speakers:

- Adia Whitaker, Founder & Artistic Director of ÀSÈ Dance Theatre Collective
- Annie-B Parson, Artistic Director, Big Dance Theater
- Carmen Caceres, Dance Artist, Choreographer, and Educator
- Mike Esperanza, Artistic Director, BARE Dance Company
- Nicky Paraiso, Director of Programming, The Club at La MaMa; Festival Curator, La MaMa Moves! Dance Festival
- Sarah Chien, Independent Dance Artist

Moderator:

- Maya Simone Z., Interdisciplinary Artist & Advocate, Dance/NYC Junior Committee

Growing a Dance Business to Scale

Livelihoods Track

12:00 p.m. – 1:30 p.m.

This session with arts organization business leaders digs deeper into the journey from single founder 'scrappy' operations to mature and structured entities. The conversation focuses on the business strategies, legal tools, and administrative frameworks that they've learned along the way. Curated with x.

Featured Speakers:

- Clarinda Mac Low, Executive Director, Culture Push, Inc.
- Jeremy McQueen, Director & Choreographer, The Black Iris Project
- Laves Pritmani, Founder, Learn Bhangra
- Violeta Galagarza, Executive Artistic Director, Keep Rising To The Top (KR3Ts)

Moderator:

- Ashley N. Cloud, Founder & Managing Attorney, The Cloud Law Firm, PLLC

*Culture Change for Racial Justice:
Allyship in Majority White-led Dance Organizations*
Livelihoods Track
12:00 p.m. – 1:30 p.m

In June of 2020, following the murder of George Floyd and the re-awakened racial reckoning, organizations raced to post solidarity statements--forcing many to assess the state of their organizations in terms of racial equity while still reeling from the effects of the pandemic. Over the course of the next year, dance and cultural organizations continued to have to respond to many more instances of racial violence and injustice. In this conversation with leaders and administrators from majority white-led organizations, speakers discuss their responses to--and interventions towards--change for racial equity. The conversation will focus on the realities and challenges faced and the work that remains to be done.

Featured Speakers:

- Craig T. Peterson, Executive Artistic Director, Abrons Arts Center
- Hope Mohr, Attorney and Co-Director of The Bridge Project
- Mike Megliola, Director of Information Strategy and Inclusion, Parsons Dance
- Sarah Marcus, Director of Education and Community Engagement, Mark Morris Dance Group

Moderator:

- Aaron Mattocks, Director of Programming, Joyce Theater

Through The Walks Of...

This work is about a group of people who are going through their own personal struggles. However, this group is unaware that they are feeling and experiencing a sense of darkness. As time passes, some appear to succumb to the darkness, while others discover how to overcome it.

Restfulness and calmness are awakened when some people experience the power of light and tranquility. This inspires individuals to explore new possibilities outside the barriers they've built and break free from the limitations they've imposed on themselves. During their journey, they each tell their unique narrative, yet they are connected to one another through their walks of...
