This summer, ADI will premiere 5 new works at the The Kitchen. Jane Comfort's 'You are Here' will focus on the dance of humanity as performed each second in the urban theater as people go about their daily lives. The myriad encounters that occur as people cross, flow, interrupt, circle and redirect their topography will translate into formal structures, with the implied narratives that underlie many of these moments of connection.

Solos, duets and other small groupings will emerge from the crowd, with the focus following one coupling for a while before being swept to another perspective as the traffic shifts, almost as changing camera angles. The overall narrative is one of a people co-existing in all its thousands of hive-like ways, creating one community.
