I am seeking a performer for a durational performance on May 1.

In this performance installation, which involves a series of video pieces and live movement-based duets, I am seeking one additional performer to be harnessed to another performer. For approximately one hour, these two performers lean slowly away from each other until their harness breaks.

I have cast one female for this duet and am seeking a partner for her. Performer must exhibit extreme concentration and focus in performance, with the ability to physically endure being harnessed and counter weighted by another performer for an extended amount of time.

The performance will take place on the evening of May 1 in Brooklyn, and rehearsals will take place on Tuesdays or Fridays during the month of April. A small stipend will be provided.

Please email sarah@sarahdahnke.com ASAP with interest, a brief description of your performance background and a video link to at least one performance.
