

Wednesday, March 2, 2011

Visiting Lecturer in Dance at University of Florida

Neta Pulvermacher Chair/Search Committee University of Florida School of Theatre and Dance Gainesville, Florida 32611 neta@ufl.edu phone: 352-273-0522 ▶ Share | Print | Download

The University of Florida is pleased to announce a search for a one-year Visiting Lecturer position in dance to begin August 16, 2011. We seek a contemporary dance artist with a national/international reputation and experience in higher education; an artist/teacher who is passionate about the practice and theory of contemporary dance.

Responsibilities: Teaching of all levels of contemporary technique (modern/ballet), dance composition, improvisation, and repertory. Advising students, choreographing/setting works on the students and other production and advisement responsibilities will be required. Also desirable is the ability and eagerness to contribute to the dance program's diverse array of courses and projects and ability and experience in advisement, recruitment and mentoring of undergraduate students in their projects and theses. Understanding of and experience in emerging media/performance technologies and an interest and/or experience in online delivery of courses is also desired.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: MFA or PhD Degree (or equivalent professional experience) with significant experience and currency in the field as a performer/choreographer.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: Applications must be submitted via the University of Florida's online application system at <https://jobs.ufl.edu> <<https://jobs.ufl.edu>> (search for requisition #0807368). Review of applications will begin March 26, 2011 and continue until an applicant pool is established.

Neta Pulvermacher Chair/Search Committee University of Florida
School of Theatre and Dance Gainesville, Florida 32611 neta@ufl.edu
phone: 352-273-0522

< back

previous listing • next listing