January 21-25, 2013

The 2013 Winter Intensive is designed to explore the process and forms inherent in Trisha Brown's body of work. In addition to a focus on technique and repertory, classes will specifically engage with Brown's rich archive of multidisciplinary work to uncover new outlets and help students accomplish individual creative goals. Particular attention will be paid to the development of a movement vocabulary into phrase material. The week will offer students a deeper knowledge of technical movement principles, compositional structure, and improvisation.

Session I: Technique and Repertory with Mariah Maloney

Lunch break: Lecture and video showing with Lisa Kraus and Mariah Maloney

Session II: Composition and Improvisation with Lisa Kraus

Location: Gina Gibney Center, 890 Broadway

$180 per session
