From the film, Bound, by Monica Thomas

Submissions for the 2018 season of ADF's Movies by Movers are open for one more month! Each year the festival takes place at the American Dance Festival in Durham, NC, followed by screenings at Appalachian State University and partner universities around the country! We accept short films by students and professionals in the genres of screendance, documentary, narrative, experimental, and animation. We accept feature length films by professional in those genres, as well. All films should have a strong focus on movement!

Submissions close February 9th.
