WAXworks, now in its 19th year, is an inclusive performance showcase that offers emerging and established artists the opportunity to present their work on a professional stage with substantial and versatile lighting, sound and technical systems. Any kind of stage work is welcome - we invite dance, theater, music, video, performance art, poetry, comedy, juggling, singing, puppetry, acrobatics, monologues or anything else that can be performed on a stage. There is no audition process and few technical limitations.

WAXworks is designed to help artists advance their creative process by viewing their work through the objective eyes of a live, enthusiastic audience. Guided by the WAX staff, audience members are invited to share their reactions and thoughts with the artists in anonymous written feedback. An involved audience is a supportive audience.

WAX is looking to expand its team by hiring an intern to join us for the Spring 2019 and Fall 2019 Season. Our intern will work closely with the production staff to assist with front-of-house responsibilities, social media, and general day-of-show needs. We hope to provide a useful opportunity for candidates to explore working in a small not-for-profit arts organization-- the challenges, and the good stuff too!

We're a streamlined, tight-knit team, and we're excited to meet proactive, self-motivated NYC-based folks to join us in the New Year.

Reach out to introduce yourself and to tell us about your relevant experience and why you might be interested in working with WAX.
