Arts Consulting Group (ACG) is facilitating the search for the next President and CEO of the National Association of Latino Arts & Cultures. Reporting to the board of directors, the President and CEO will collaborate with the board, staff, and key stakeholders to set the long-term vision and implement short-term goals centered on NALAC's mission. This leader will embrace innovation and collaboration to inspire others to advance the Latinx arts and culture sector. Solid experience managing, mentoring, and motivating their team will be essential. Fostering an inclusive environment and an organizational culture that values equity, diversity, inclusion, and belonging will be core functions of this role. As the public face of NALAC, the President and CEO will cultivate strong relationships with funders and partners and participate in national alliances and convenings, serving as the leading advocate and agenda-setter for the Latinx arts and culture sector. They will collaborate with the board's finance and investment committees to ensure NALAC's long-term fiscal and organizational sustainability. This individual will be an exemplary spokesperson for the value of Latinx arts and culture and its positive, reverberating impacts on society.
