 OPEN CASTING CALL for the short film PETIT LOUIS ***
Written & Directed by Andre Bato

Seeking talent to shoot in New York or Los Angeles
Actors and Non-Actors are welcome to apply.

Synopsis
An 80s tale of two lovers living together in a state of eternal limbo within the confines of a small European apartment. As we slowly peel back each layer, the dynamic between the two takes on different forms revealing some of the deeper, darker, tortured, and even violent roots to their relationship. An authentic feeling love story, one without a happy ending. And really, because of its infinite loop format, there is no ending at all.

Plot
[CHIARA], White female to play early 20s. Smart, yet a bit wide-eyed, childish, and naive. Has a striking and expressive face. A runaway American girl who lands in Europe. Has a girliness that can reel anyone in. While her past is unknown, it's clear it had an impact on her. Be it due to family dynamics or her heart being broken too many times, Chiara comes from a deep yearning to be loved. Maybe one day she'll realize her inner strength. LEAD. Shoots approx 7 days. Partial nudity

[JEAN-LUC aka J], White male to play 30s - early 40s. Seeking talent who authentically identify as either French, French-American, or French-Canadian. Talent MUST be able to speak English with a French accent. Ideally has a lanky physique, but not an absolute requirement. is an enigma to many. He's a "tortured," scruffy artist, with all his drawings and books in his "artist" studio apartment full of vintage relics to make him seem sophisticated. Little do people know, his family back home has been financing his lifestyle for years. Women easily fall for him. CO-LEAD. Shoots approx 7 days. Partial nudity
