Meka Oku, the Afro'House King, is a Nigerian-born, self-taught dance instructor and choreographer. He was inspired to learn to dance at a young age by watching his idol, Michael Jackson. His experience dancing in different styles of Afro Dance, Afro'House, and Dancehall inspired movement has led him to choreograph for A-List artists such as Psquare and Selebobo. He is the founder of AfroHouse NYC, a teaching platform, dedicated to bringing the AfroHouse dance genre from Angola to the U.S. Meka teaches live classes across the United States as well as hosts online events and tutorials.
