David Cooper

Canadian born choreographer Joshua Beamish takes the Joyce stage with a dazzling program featuring the US premiere of burrow, a duet for Royal Ballet dancers Matthew Ball and Nicol Edmonds, and the world premiere of Surface Properties, an ensemble work performed by ten American Ballet Theatre dancers in which the brash, relentless music of Mark Mellits and Michael Gordon informs the artists' astounding speed and precision. Also on the program—excerpts from Pierced, Beamish's 2013 piece exploring the dark side of love.
