Please join us September 19 + 20 as BodyStories: Teresa Fellion Dance premieres a new evening-length work, purple flame. This work explores the strength of human resilience through the perspective of an individual and of a community more broadly. It specifically explores the challenge of navigating personal health challenges and navigating the journey of finding strength and adaptability within times of vulnerability. Fluidity and buoyancy act as thematic anchoring points as dancers allow themselves to fall freely through space. The work investigates personal intuition and group support, illustrating the depth and complexity of each person's lived experiences and state of being.
