We are thrilled to announce that the Camille A. Brown Arts Program will launch this Summer 2025! This FREE weekend immersion program offers BIPOC youth (ages 16-23) the opportunity to explore the diverse artistic components that Camille A. Brown incorporates in her repertory works. Participants will engage in workshops across dance, music, theater, and technical production (including projections, lighting design, and sound design).

Camille A. Brown's love for dance and theater was shaped by the free arts programs that gave her access to creative opportunities as a young artist. This weekend immersion program continues that legacy, providing BIPOC youth with a space to explore all of the creative elements that bring productions to life (dance, music, theater, technical production, etc.). By broadening their skill sets and industry knowledge, the program helps participants build confidence, develop new creative pathways, and expand opportunities for women and gender-expansive artists who remain underrepresented in the field.

Deadline for submissions is 4/4/25 at 11:59 PM Eastern.

*All applicants will be notified via email of their acceptance by May 2025. If you have any questions, please reach out to patrice@camilleabrown.org
