"FAUVE" - Nefelaba Dance Theater's Inaugural Performance Choreographed by Isaac Iskra with assistance from Taylor Jordan and Garret Parker, "FAUVE": A story of redemption, of second chances, and of the power of one person to make a difference. In this coming-of-age tale, we follow the life of a young man who has given up his personal dreams to help others in his community. When he is about to commit suicide, he reflects on his own life and after an epiphany, realizes his life has meaning and matters to those around him as well. The goal of the performance is to bring awareness to the staggering rate of suicide for those on the Autism Spectrum.
