In choreographer David Roussève's newest 80-minute multimedia work, the exceptional performers of his company, REALITY, explore the world of a young, gay, African-American man through arresting choreography, video projections including unanswered texts, original music by composer d. Sabela grimes, and classic songs interpreted by Ella Fitzgerald, Nat King Cole, and Johnny Mathis. Poignant, riveting, and challenging, Stardust depicts a moving portrait of the struggle for love and acceptance. This program contains mature content.

Presented as part of Weekend OUT.
